

Copyright – what you should know

1. SeaChanges policy is to acquire copyright on all contributions. The main reason for this is that ownership of the material by the SeaChanges proprietor maximises protection against infringement of copyright protected material through breach of copyright or piracy anywhere in the world.
2. In return for your assignment of copyright, we undertake to publish your contribution to the journal in a timely and professional manner and license you with the following rights.
3. You may publish the whole or part of your Contribution in a printed work written, edited or compiled by you, provided you make the usual acknowledgments regarding copyright notice and reference to first publication by SeaChanges.
4. You will be informed of all requests to which we have agreed, to produce your contribution, or a substantial part of it, in any print-on-paper publication, or an electronic product such as a CD Rom where your contribution is specifically requested, rather than as part of the journal as a whole.

Inclusion of Other Copyright Material

If you have included copyright material, e.g. illustrations, photographs, tables, charts, maps, company logos/trademarks or other visual material, etc. and not requested permission for this use under, or other International Copyright Laws which may be in force, you will need to furnish reasons for such inclusion of material.